NORTHEAST SECTOR DEVELOPMENT

Paciulli, Simmons & Associates has been working for George Mason University since 1999 and is currently providing complete civil engineering, land surveying and environmental services to the University on two design/build housing projects for the Northeast Sector Development at the Fairfax Campus.

Housing VII-C: This $50 million, design/build project consists of over 200,000 square feet, a 600-bed student housing complex with associated support spaces, 120-seat specialty dining venue and the extension and relocation of utilities. This project will be designed and constructed to obtain LEED Silver certification.

Housing VII: A $79 million design/build project that encompasses an 11-acre area. Housing VII consists of five multistory residence buildings, dining facility, fitness center, retail, and various recreation and office spaces totaling over 450,000 square feet.
